

Leadership & Transpersonal Coaching

Lynda is a highly skilled coach and visionary guide. Her many years of business line management, conscious business leadership, and strategic business consulting provide a grounding and deep understanding of the challenges and opportunities facing business leaders in today's rapidly changing environment. In her Leadership and Transpersonal Coaching, she provides an integration of tools for individual executives and customized coaching programs for organization leadership teams – all focused on expanding awareness and growth to achieve personal and organizational goals with effectiveness and integrity.

Her life-long personal growth path has prepared her to offer Transpersonal Coaching; working with individuals who are interested in deepening their relationship to their calling, living joyfully, and who desire to increase their positive impact in the world.

Lynda utilizes an Integral 'whole systems' approach to coaching, with the emphasis on working with clients in an appreciative approach building on strengths and deepening levels of consciousness to understand personal mental models that enhance and/or hinder growth. Once clarity for change is gained, clients are motivated to change and are focused on integrity with commitment to achieve and sustain new behaviors.

"In working with Lynda, the processes we have worked through have been effective but the outcomes – the changes in my life - are what truly excite me and what have made our work together so meaningful. I am more complete, balanced, confident, joyful and most importantly – healthy – as a result of my discoveries in working with Lynda. I see the Senior Team I lead more at ease, yet more committed to excellence because of the changes I have made – which have impacted them.

The organization I lead looks very different today... fresher, friendlier, fun, productive ... I've changed and that has changed my organization. That would sum up the value of my work with Lynda." Anne Rieck McFarland, President and CEO, South Dakota ACHIEVE

"I began working with Lynda to assess ways to improve my work performance and my ability to step into my authentic self. What I received was a deep understanding of myself – an understanding of what I was hiding from and unwilling to acknowledge that kept me from living my life to the fullest. I am NOW much more aware, appreciative, balanced, and creating the true success I deserve. Appreciatively... "
